Dear Students,

As I wrap up my first year as president of Eastern Nazarene College, I am so thankful for the privilege of serving you. You have welcomed me warmly into this community and into your lives, and it has been an absolute joy to get acquainted with so many of you.

I've had the privilege of worshipping with you in chapel, attending your games and plays, eating with you in the cafeteria, taking selfies with you across campus, and having countless informal conversations. In all of these interactions, you show yourselves repeatedly to be young men and women of kindness, character, intelligence, and dedication. The core of the Christian faith is to love God and love people, and I see you doing both in ways that are encouraging and inspiring.

As you look through the pages of this yearbook and reflect on this year at ENC, I hope gratitude will fill your heart for the people who make up this community and the experiences we have shared together. To the graduating seniors: I pray that you will find much joy in the next stage of your journey and that you will remember your time here at ENC with fondness. You will always have a home here, and I hope you will come back and visit often. To those of you who will be returning next year, I look forward to another year of learning and growing together.

I have chosen to work in Christian higher education because I believe in our mission and I believe in you. ENC is one of those rare colleges that is equally committed to academic excellence and spiritual formation, and the result is that our students are equipped to serve God and society in impactful ways. All of us here at ENC are committed to providing you with that kind of education, and we look forward to seeing how God will use you to change this world that He loves so much.

I congratulate all of you on everything you have already achieved, and look forward with anticipation to everything that God has in store for your future.

Gratefully,

Jack Connell

President

Hello Friends!

As I reflect on the past 2019-2020 school year, I can't help but appreciate each interaction I have had with each of you. I cannot be more grateful for the formative community that is ENC. As I look deeper, that community is made up of every one of you. Each of your desires, interests, activities, and personalities is what makes this college so great.

To all of the Seniors, I am beyond thankful to share such a fantastic journey with each of you. Whether your journey was all four years or a few terms, I am grateful to share my time at ENC with you. Congratulations to each one of you as we have made it. What seemed so far away in 2016, graduation is finally here. As you enter your life post-graduation, filled with anxiety, or stress may I encourage you with a word from Matthew. "Can anyone of you by worrying add a single hour to your life?" (Matthew 6:27 NIV). As we enter a very stressful and hectic part of our life, it is also going to be filled with incredible opportunities and journeys.

As for everyone else, if I can give you any advice, I would say to put yourself out there and don't be afraid to try new things. Pour your heart and soul into this community, and it will reciprocate that back to you. I promise you that if you do those small things, you will not be disappointed in your time at ENC. If you immerse yourself in this community, I can assure you that you will be surrounded by people who support you, care for you, and will encourage you. All the while, making fun, life-long memories and friendships here at ENC.

Congratulations to the Class of 2020. To all, may you remember that growth happens in time of discomfort. Reach outside your comfort zone, and there you will find opportunities to grow. We are all going to struggle at some point, but we are not alone. We are put into those struggling situations by an all-knowing God who wants you to reach your full potential. He would not put you in those situations if He did not believe in you. You are loved, adored, and cared for by the Creator.

Noah Cheney

Student Body President

ENC Students,

Thank you! Our journey over the last four years at ENC has been momentous because of you. Crossing paths with you whether in class, in chapel, in the gym, in our home, in our offices, in the cafeteria or wherever, has been meaningful because you shared yourselves with us. We are grateful for any opportunity we have had to hear about the things you were learning and wrestling with, or by which you were challenged or empowered. We have had the privilege to bear witness to the multiple ways you have been transformed by this community and by God, and we have been the beneficiaries to also have been transformed in the same ways – by this community, by God, and by you.

Take away from this place more than knowledge and a credential. Take faith, community, love for others, and a passion for God's redemption and justice in the world.

Remember, life is not a race. It is better traveled together. (Unless you're actually in a race, then stop reading this and beat the person next to you.)

We pray a blessing over you, recognizing your sacredness as an image-bearer of God. You have our hearts and you are always welcome in our home – wherever in the world we may be.

"Every time I think of you, I give thanks to my God. 4 Whenever I pray, I make my requests for all of you with joy…it is right that I should feel as I do about all of you, for you have a special place in my heart." Philippians 1:3-4; 7a (NLT)

Tara Brooke Watkins

Professor

Dedication:

I am so thankful to be able to write the dedication for my friend and colleague Tara Brooke Watkins. Her deep commitment to supporting the ENC community and pushing us to become better individuals and community members is apparent to anyone who knows her.

Tara consistently puts others before herself and works tirelessly as an advocate. She leads story circles with students, staff, and faculty to foster a stronger sense of community and safety on campus. She championed our first Social Justice week and spoke loudly in support of the LGBTQ+ members in our community. She created our new Theatre for Social Justice major, jumping into a partnership with Father Bill's to raise awareness of the issue of homelessness in Quincy.

Tara's impact on the culture of Eastern Nazarene College extends far beyond the walls of the Cove Fine Arts Center and will long outlast her stay at ENC. She has provided countless opportunities for growth in her students, myself included, and will always sacrifice her precious spare time to hear the stories and struggles of any student, staff member, or professor on campus. She is a trusted confidant, a creative educator, an incredible director, a fearless pioneer, a staunch advocate, and my closest friend.

To the classes,

We have been bringing light to ENC since our arrival. Our involvement on campus ranges from sports to performing arts, serving on student government, as class chaplains, resident assistants, and we have a passion for activism, the environment and social justice. Each student is here at ENC in a time of great change, with our new president, Jack Connell, joining our ENC family and ENC celebrating it's 100 Years in Quincy. There are no words to describe the fire we have for our world and even more so ENC's community, there is no doubt that the impact of each class will be long lasting.

On behalf of the Sophomore Class Council and Publications Team thank you, you are valuable and cherished.

Seniors,

May 2020 is finally here! Whether your journey at ENC has been a few semesters or 4+ years, just know you put in lots of hard work to accomplish this! In the words of Elle Woods, "we did it!"

This yearbook is meant to capture the spirit of ENC "through our eyes". With pictures from Catelynn Frantz and Julius Opashowski, they were able to show what our lives looked like at ENC this past year. Along with design input from Hope Tavares De Almeida, support from Laurent Ruttkowski, and lots of hours in Studioworks, we worked to create a book full of memories to look back on and remember what ENC looked like through our eyes.

As this chapter of our lives comes to an end, I can only wish the best for everyone as we all start our next journey.
